At the recent dinner of the Columbian University alumni a very full showing was made by the various speakers of the immense wealth of educational material and appliances in science, law, medicine, politics and public economy collected by the nation at the capital and available for use by all students and investigators. Duplication of this educational material. where reproduction was possible at any cost, would, it was estimated, cost twenty million dollars. A joint resolution recently introduced by Representative Hemphill refers significantly to the action and policy of the ucational center, even though it endows and government in making Washington a great edcontrols no single institution as a national university. This resolution recites that large col- CREPES.-Likemen-some weaves are created great lections illustrative of the various arts and sciences and facilitating literary and scientific research have been accumulated by the action of Congress through a series of years at the national capital; that it was the original purpose of the government thereby to promote research and the diffusion knowledge, and is now the settled policy and present practice of those charged with the care of these collections specially to encourage students who devote their time to the investigation and study of any branch of knowledge by allowing to them all proper use thereof, and that it is represented that the enumeration of these facilities and the formal statement of this policy will encourage the establishment and endowment of institutions of learning at the seat of government and promote the work of education by attracting students to avail themselves of these advantages. The resolution provides that the facilities for research and illustration in the governmental collections at the capital shall be accessible under proper rules to the students of institutions of higher education, and enumerates among these collections the library of Congress, the national museum, the patent office, the bureau of education, the bureau of ethnology, the army medical museum, the department of agriculture, the fish commission, the botanic gardens, the coast and geodetic survey, the geological survey and the naval observatory. This list might be considerably enlarged, but the institutions mentioned may serve as samples of the national endowment of university work at the capital. The resolution appropriately includes all collections now existing or hereafter to be established and extends its benefits to educational institutions now or hereafter to be incorporated. The measure rightly refers to the policy of the nation in this matter as already fixed and in practical operation, and

The funds for the entertainment of Grand Army encampments come from private subscriptions, city appropriations and state appropriations. For the encampment at Boston of service is soon to begin. We couldn't have them citizens of Boston contributed $13,600, Boston marked any cheaper-and guarantee them. Could appropriated $25,000 and Massachusetts appro- wet priated $50,000. The citizens of Washington have up to date made good $38,355 of their guarantee fund, which will be increased to $50,000 at least, of which the sum of $25,000 is to be the first money expended in the preparations. Their private subscription is Established 1840. already about three times that of the (One of the oldest.) people of Boston, there being no necessity, of course, for the latter to raise more money than they did in this particular way. With the vate subscription feature of the encampment fund in this reasonably satisfactory shape the NN N II encampment managers are beginning their N N II effort to secure the customary municipal and state appropriations. Congress is our municipal and state legislature, so the application for the appropriation goes to that body. The Commissioners of the District and the President of the United States have indorsed the proposed municipal expenditure, and prompt and evorable action ought to be taken upon the subject by our legislature. Washington is more indebted to the old soldiers for protection during the war than Boston. The legislature of the national capital and national District can hardly be less liberal in welcoming the Grand Army than the municipal legislature of Boston and the legislature of Massachusetts. More money will be needed here than in Boston, for there will be a vastly larger attendance. The nation which the soldiers saved and the national capital which they protected will give at the nation's home a royal welcome to the Grand Army, when the veterans revisit next fall the scenes of some of their war experiences.

The desire of the Senate, in considering so delicate a matter as the Bering sea question has become, to deliberate behind closed doors THAT FIRST-CLASS HOUSEHOLD WARES CAN is natural and justifiable. The Senate ought to take obvious and reasonable precautions in such cases and to hold its sessions open to the public in ordinary cases. It ought, however, to be, and doubtless is, thoroughly understood by the Senate that its own members have consciously or unconsciously supplied the facts upon which the newspaper accounts of the ordinary executive session have been based, and not its employes, whom, in excess of precaution, the Senate has on this occasion excluded. There has not been for a very long BY OUR time any happening of an executive session revealed through the newspapers which disclosed state secrets to a foreign government or in any way served to injure the national interests. The story of the German balloons floating at FULFILLS HER PART OF THE CONTRACT BY the will of their conductors over the Russian SHARING WITH US HER WEEKLY OR MONTHLY army corps out of range of the guns trained on them, may be pure fiction. The meeting to be held tomorrow at the Congregational Church to consider the subject of aid for the famine sufferers in Eussia is one that is suitable to the day. No better argument can be found as to the justice of the contention of the United States in the Bering sea question than the growing British opposition to Lord Salisbury's course.

According to custom the new season's goods are to be offered at reduced prices, as a souvenir of their "Opening." The list given in lower portion of these columns is more as a guide to prices than a description of qualities and styles. To illustrate: Among the Men's Scarfs are those of the new glace or two-tone silks. The silks were secured by our Paris agent, Mr. Henri Kaleer; the Scarfs were made to our order, modeled after the samples sent us from our Mr. George Lewin of 28 King William st., London. So you see that our methods assure latest novelties and lowest prices. The Ladies' Top Coats of Tan broadcloth, with strap seams, &c., you need not be told are London made; they are an exclusive noveky because made to order of our Mr. Lewin. Other Coats, Capes, &c., also Paris Parasois and Bow-knot Jewelry and many designs of India Silks and Fancy Woolen Dress Fabrics that are also noughties and really exclusive.
